03/09/20 Dutchess Junction, NY Rt.9 brush fire—Numerous fire departments and agencies from Dutchess, Putnam, and Orange counties assisted the Dutchess Junction Fire Department at a large brush and forest fire on Rte. 9D this afternoon. Fueled by dry brush, wind, and pre-heating of the vegetation by the warm sun, the fire spread quickly jumping Rte. 9 D and working it's way up the mountain north of the Breakneck Tunnel. And at one point, numerous cars parked at the trailhead north of the Breakneck Tunnel became involved in fire as the fire grew in intensity. The NYSP Aviation Unit from Stewart AirPort assisted NYS Forrest Rangers with airdrops of water on the fire. I spoke with a group of NYS Forrest Rangers who were preparing to hike the mountain to fight the fire and they indicated they would be working long after dark on the mountain in an attempt to bring the fire under control.

Q. When did you join the CFPA and why? And what positions do you hold/or have held, with the club?

A: I joined in August 2018 after being encouraged to join off and on for a year by Griffin Stover. I wanted to be a part of a group that enjoyed the same hobby I did.

Q. What cities or towns do you primarily cover?

A: Boston and the surrounding cities, and southern New Hampshire from Nashua to Manchester. I drive back and forth a lot between MA and NH so I'll take in any incidents on Route 3 or I-93 and I-495.

Q: What department are you affiliated with? How?

A: I'm not affiliated with any departments, though I have friends on many throughout New Hampshire.

Q: What kind of camera equipment do you use?

A: I've used a lot of different cameras over the years, starting with point and shoot pocket cameras and camcorders when I was a teen and now working with a detachable lens camera, the OM-D E-M10 Mark III.

Q: Have your images been published? (Notable achievements, covers, etc.)

A: I've had images published in local newspapers, 1st Responder News, Fire News, Boston Fire Wire, NYC Fire Wire, and the Fire Trucks in Action and IFSTA calendars. Video has been published via multiple avenues including Firehouse.com, firescenes.net, WBZ, WMUR, Statter911, and Government Fleet. I've provided video for the NH Fire Academy for use in training classes and have sold footage to the World's Wildest Weather television program and Jellies children's app.

Q: Do you have a website, or where do you post your images?

A: I post images on Instagram and Facebook, as well as scene and response videos on YouTube.

Q: What city do you like to buff the most Boston/New York, buffalo, or Detroit?

A: I've had horrendous luck when I go to New York, but even if that wasn't the case I'd pick Boston. It's home, easy enough to navigate when rush hour isn't happening, and sees quite a bit of action.

Q: What was the first fire that you ever photographed?

A: Probably a controlled training burn of a vacant house in Oviedo, Florida in the late 90s. Then I took a long break before getting back into photography in the early 2010s.

Q: In addition to fire ground photography, what else do you enjoy photographing? What are your other hobbies?

A: I've found I take a lot of photos of interesting cloud formations, and I recently went plane spotting for the first time and found it to be enjoyable.

Q: Your style, and what you look for on an emergency scene? Your preference? Action, static etc....

A: I like action shots by far, focusing tight on individuals for photo and shooting wide for video. Anything that helps tell the story. It makes for good content for both print and video media that may want it for their stories.

CFPA Member Spotlight

Sean Fesko

Q: What is the biggest fire you've ever photographed?

A: This is hard to pick—in terms of fire load, I arrived on the scene of the 9+ alarm fire in East Boston last year around the time the sixth alarm was struck. I also responded into Lawrence during the gas emergency in 2018 and hopped around between scenes and main roads for video. It would be one of those two.
